BAR BERNARD

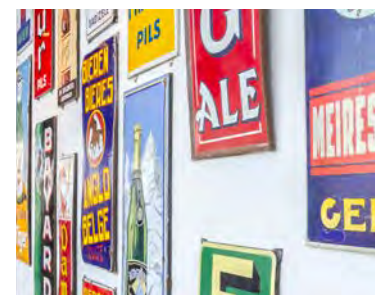

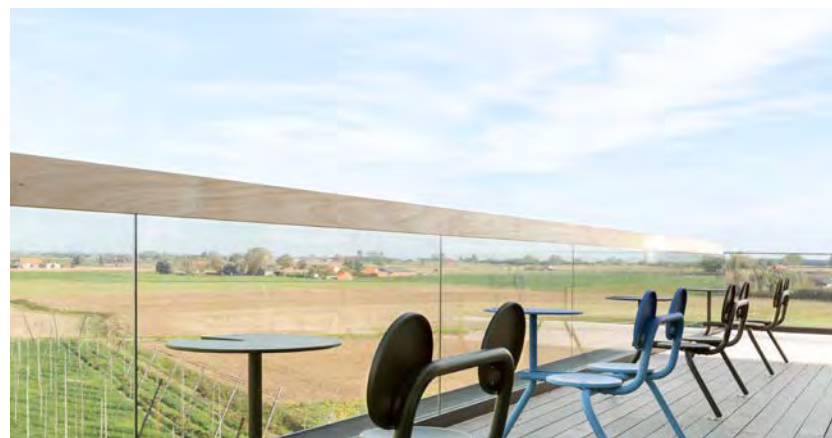

Since the summer of 2018, we can welcome visitors and beer lovers from all countries to our simply impressive rooftop bar. Bar Bernard is not only the last stop & tasting room for anyone taking the brewery tour, but everyone is welcome.

Of course, our St. Bernardus beers are key in Bar Bernard. And most of our dishes are based on them. We like to go for the principle of food pairing, in which the flavours of the dishes are highlighted by combining them with one of our beers.

Our patio grants you a breathtaking view of the entire Watou region.

More information about the menu and the opening hours can be found on our website.

BREWERY KAZEMATTEN

'T HOPPECRUYT

Brouwerij Kazematten was founded in 2013 within the fortifications surrounding the city of Ieper. The unique historic bunkers of the Houten Paard at the Rijsselpoort in Ieper were converted into an authentic brewery, where the Wipers Times and Grotten Santé beers are brewed, among others.

You can join one of the brewery visits if you want to learn about the history of this site, the operations, or the story behind the brewery.

OPEN BREWERY

Every Saturday afternoon the brewery is open for public from 3 until 5 PM. Entry charge is € 10,00 per person: you can visit the brewery and taste 3 beers. Children pay € 4,00. Guided tours in Dutch start at 3 and 5 PM, guided tour in English starts at 4 PM. Reservation through visit@kazematten.be is desired!

't Hoppecruyt is a contemporary hops company which uses the most modern cultivation techniques, and has an eye for the environment. The Desmyter family is located at the hops farm in the heart of Proven since 1893. Hops farmers Wout and Benedikte are the fourth generations of hops growers providing Belgian brewers with the best quality hops.

Benedikte fascinates both young and old visitors with the story of Belgian hops and the Poperinge hops shoots. A fun outing for all ages.

Tours are available from 15 February to 31 March, and from 21 May to 30 September.

LEMAHIEU POPERINGE

You can discover all the smells and flavours of hops at the hops firm of Ivan Lemahieu and Rosa Lobeau. Ivan and Rosa would be happy to take you on a tour and teach you anything you want to know. You will learn that hops do more than give beer its flavour, but also have a medicinal effect, and that the farmed hops vines can even be turned into decorative art pieces.

During winter and early spring, they will be working hard on harvesting the most expensive vegetable in Belgium – the famous hops shoots. You can attend workshops and create your own hops wreath from mid-September to November. Or would you rather experience the harvest yourself? Make sure to reserve a spot during the first weeks of September. Once you complete the workshop with a wealth of new knowledge, you can enjoy a delicious hoppy beer before Ivan and Rosa cheerfully wave you goodbye.

In 1903, Carolus Boeraeve moved to a farm on the Schoudemonthoek, a stone's throw from the Helleketelbos, to grow hops there. A few years later, his Buvrin hops win a price at a hops' exhibit. His son Maurits also catches the hops bug, and soon many hops fields pop up along the Kleine Casseldreef, which are still there, 100 years later. Grandson Albert starts growing hops within the ring of Poperinge, only to return to the Schoudemonthoek in the 60s. In the meantime, hops farmer Gery, the fourth generation, has operated the hops firm for 40 years, and the fifth generation is ready to continue the family tradition.

There are currently 7.50 hectares of hops at the Schoudemonthoek, both aromatic hops (for the pleasant aromas) and bitter versions (for a bitter, spicy hint). The mild sea climate and the Poperinge sand-loam soil give the hops a unique flavour pallet which can be tasted in the beers brewed using Poperinge hops. All our hops have the Belgian hops logo.

BREWERY & ABBEY ST. SIXTUS

In 1838 - 1839, the priests of the Sint-Sixtus Abbey first started brewing Trappist beers. In 1945, the abbot decided to limit production to quantities needed to be self-sufficient. The next year, the beer was brewed based on a license in the Sint-Bernardus brewery in Watou. It wasn't until 1992 before the Westvleteren Trappist beers were fully brewed in the abbey itself again as a new rule was introduced which required that only beers brewed in an abbey could have the Trappist beer label.

Three beers are brewed: Trappist Westvleteren Blond (5.8°), Acht (8.0°) and Twaalf (10.2°). In 2005, the ratebeer.com website elected the Westvleteren Twaalf as the best beer of the world. The Westvleteren Acht also scored high in the rankings.

The abbey and the brewery are not accessible to the public. The Westvleteren beers can only be purchased on site or at the brewery after online reservation. Across the street you can also taste their beers in café 'In De Vrede'.

TALBOT HOUSE

"If you are willing to forget your class or standing, visit the Talbot House."

At the end of 1915, chaplains Philip "Tubby" Clayton and Neville Talbot opened a unique recreational facility.

Talbot House quickly grew into the number one soldier's home of the British Army. It offered visitors a home, relaxation, and a place to forget the war, to become human again. All military staff was welcome there, from ordinary soldier to higher officers, an Every Man's Club.

IN ALL MY YEARS,
I HAVE NEVER KNOWN
A PLACE WHICH IS AS GOOD
FOR THE MORE
AS TALBOT HOUSE.

LIJSSENTHOEK

Lijssenthoek Military Cemetery is the impressive witness of over four years of wartime violence. The hamlet of Lijssenthoek hosted the largest evacuation hospital of the Ieperboog from 1915 to 1920. Today, the cemetery is a testament to the Great War. The visitor centre, which can be visited for free, tells the story of this unique site.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS MUSEUM

The In Flanders Fields Museum tells the story of World War I in the West-Flemish front region. The museum is located in the Lakenhallen in Ieper, an important symbol of the suffering caused by war, and the later recovery. The new exhibition focuses more on the personal stories of ordinary people, and creates an even better link with the landscape of the First World War in Flanders. Visitors can now also climb the Belfort Tower and enjoy a unique view of the once ravaged region.

YPER MUSEUM

Ieper, a worldwide symbol of the commemoration of the First World War, but there is so much more. It has a rich history spanning eleven centuries: Textile City, Large Medieval City, Fortified City, Bishop City, Military City, Ravaged and Recovered City, Cat City, Peace City, Westhoek City ... Ieper has been, and is, it all.

The background is nothing to smirk at: the Yper Museum is located in a wing of the Lakenhallen, Europe's largest civil complex in the Neogothic style. The Lakenhallen also host the Flanders Field Museum, the Knowledge Centre of the Ieper Museums, the Tourism Service, and the regional visitor centre. This makes our Lakenhallen one large museum building. It is certainly worth bringing your children to a visit to this museum.

HOOGE CRATER MUSEUM

SITES IN THE REGION

 25,0 KM / 29 MIN.

This museum is truly worth a visit with its true-to-life reconstructions of wartime events of the First World War, and its extensive collection of weapons, equipment, and pictures. The Hooze and this unique war museum are an absolute must for both tourists, collectors, and historians when visiting the Ieperboog (Ypres Salient).

The Hooze Crater war museum is located in the hamlet of "Hooze", on the Ieper-Menen road (the Meenseweg), four kilometres to the east of Ieper, not far from the "Bellewaerde" theme park. It is easily accessible from the main roads. Follow N8 and the brown "Bellewaerde" sign. Right opposite the large "Hooze Crater cemetery".

DE MENENPOORT

The Menenpoort is the most well-known Commonwealth War Memorial in Flanders. The gate was designed on the drawing tables in London by Sir Reginald Blomfield while the war was still raging, and was created at the location of the former Menenpoort, the road along which the troops moved to the front.

The Menenpoort was revealed in 1927. The stone panels show the name of 54,896 soldiers from the Salient which were reported missing and have unmarked graves. You will only find the names of soldiers that died between August 1914 and August 1917 here. Those who were reported missing between 16 August 1917 and the end of the war (34,000 names) are etched into the stone tables on the Tyne Cot Cemetery in Passendale.

JULES DESTROOPER

Quality, authenticity, natural ingredients, and, above all, a never diminishing passion for biscuits ... When Jules Destrooper founded his biscuit store with the same name in 1886, he would never have expected that connoisseurs in over 75 countries would appreciate his cookies exactly 125 years later.

In this brand-new visitor centre, you literally walk through the rich history of the world-famous cookies from West-Flanders. You will also learn a lot about how the Destrooper family bakes refined cookies today. One of our bakers in the test bakery will give you an expert explanation, which, naturally, includes extensive tasting.
